Kay - i think the last three items are speculative in the sense that we really don't know what the solution will be - if it will include treatment or not for example. Timing is also speculative.

But there needs to be a goal set for resolution of the issues. I think the public and the various county commissioners will be very upset if there is timeline with no potential endpoint in sight. It will make us all look bad. No one wants a perpetual research project that has no goal or resolution.

Peter, I think BLM is supportive of the list through item #11. But the last three items are so speculative I am not sure they are useful. I have no issue with the text of the paragraphs. Brent and Brad should be given a chance to comment before anything goes out as being "blessed" by BLM.

Hi Folks – Here is the latest attempt at a timeline for events to address metal loading in the Animas. If you've got any comments, please let me know by Monday the 15th. Then I'd like to send this out to the larger group. Thanks.
